

CONTACT:
Scott Rasmussen
RasGraphics
951-303-0400

Zektor Included In Stereophile Magazine's Annual Recommended Product List

The versatile MAS7.1 highlighted as "The Swiss Army Knife of switchers"

Poway, CA – April 29, 2008 – Zektor is honored to be recognized and included in the coveted "Annual Recommended Products" list from Stereophile Magazine.

"Being included in the same company as other industry leaders is inspiring", states Jeff Haynes, VP Sales and Marketing at Zektor. As quoted in the magazine,

"The Zektor MAS7.1 is the Swiss Army Knife of audio input switchers; the MAS7.1 is capable of switching 7.1 channels. It offers three coax and three TosLink inputs, as well as, coax and TosLink outputs, and can function as a three-way HDMI switcher with HDMI V1.3a capability. "The MAS7.1 can handle the job with all sources analog, coaxial, digital, TosLink or HDMI", praised K.R. "Subjectively transparent as an HDMI switcher or 7.1 audio switcher, it is an ideal choice if you need one or both functions (Vol.30 No.11 WWW)

"The MAS7.1 has been a mainstay of our company's business over the past year", adds Jeff Hanson, President and co-founder of Zektor. We have been pleased with the acceptance and versatility the MAS7.1 has provided to our customers.

About Zektor

Zektor is a designer and manufacturer of prosumer and professional passive, matrix and Pro A/V switches for the commercial and residential marketplace. Zektor proudly designs, manufactures and supports all of their products in the USA. Zektor was founded in 2003 and is a privately held company. For more information please visit their website at www.zektor.com.